

SCIENCE AND CULTURE

S.KRUPANIDHI*

Since time immemorial, the Indian culture has been providing ample opportunities to make Science and Spirituality to grow together. The pursuit of knowledge is science. The quest for truth is spirituality. Both have facilitated man to refine him culturally. The culture is an impediment for these two disciplines to become counterproductive. Thus, the Cultural Revolution has led to the evolution of the present day modern world, comprising of the fruits of scientific achievements and ethical perspectives of cultural and spiritual practices. Therefore, the scientific talents and utilization of scientific tools have been a part and parcel of our Indian culture.
