Science Park features dozens of ingenious hands-on exhibits displayed in a lovely outdoor setting. Using the outdoors as a living laboratory for people to experiment with science and appreciate the surrounding natural beauty is a relatively new concept in the world of science museums. There are many reasons why science parks are increasingly popular at science centers worldwide. The Nehru Science Centre at Mumbai was started with a pioneering approach towards science education through fun and enjoyment by way of creating an outdoor “Science Park”. For the first time, science learning was to take place outside the four walls.
