

OPEN QUESTION OF PROBABILITY OF LIFE ON MARS

R. N. SINGH*

The international scientific community has a problem of settling the question of existence of life on Mars, the only probable planet in our solar system. It has been lingering question for a long time. Venus looked more attractive and was explored for 14 years with negative result. Scientific community is busy in devising improved system for exploring Mars and provide answer to this important lingering question.